

Design Decision:

I wanted the shopping cart page to be easily accessible and not be its own dedicated page. Instead, I incorporated the shopping cart page to existing pages such as the menu page. Ideally, if the user wishes to add a new item to their order, they would simply click the "x" on the shopping cart sidebar to minimize it and return to the menu page. This would make it a lot less frustrating if a user needed to check their cart and then add more items to their cart.