Screenshot:

Sitemap:

Design Decision:
I didn't change much to the design and layout of the checkout page other than smaller details such as adding colors that correspond to my website color palette, and rounding the "Place Order" button. Some feedback I received included the fact that this is a standard layout for what shopping cart page would look like and be incorporated into the workflow of ordering items from a website. Hence, I kept the layout from the lofi wireframes.